Claims 1-14 are presented for examination.

Applicants' drawings filed March 22, 2004 and the information disclosure statements filed November 9, 2005 and November 16, 2005 have been received and entered.

Applicants' election filed March 20, 2007 in response to the restriction requirement of February 20, 2007 has been received and entered. The applicants elected the invention described in claims 1-12 (Group I) with traverse.

Applicants' traverse is not deemed persuasive for reasons set forth in the restriction requirement dated February 20, 2007; therefore, the restriction requirement is hereby made Final.

Claims 13 and 14 are withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to the non-elected invention (37 CFR 1.142(b)).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-12 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-9 of copending Application No. 10/260,632. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the current application is merely a different wording representation. In some aspects, the claims of the copending application may be broader in some respects and add features in other aspects.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 1-12 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 11-20 of copending Application No. 10/431,059. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the current application is merely a different wording representation. In some aspects, the claims of the present application may be broader in some respects and add features in other aspects.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 1-12 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-6 of copending Application No. 11/149,466. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the current application is merely a different wording representation. In some aspects, the claims of the present application may be broader in some respects and add features in other aspects.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the current application is merely a different wording representation. In some aspects, the claims of the copending application may be broader in some respects and add features in other aspects.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, the phrase "including" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitation(s) following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

The remaining claims 2-12 are rendered indefinite to the extent that they incorporate the above terminology.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

Art Unit: 1614

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 01/87372 A1, hereby known as Kopia et al. in view of Roorda et al. (2002/0188277A1) and further in view of DeHaan et al. (4,743,327).

Kopia et al. teach a medical device such as a stent implantation wherein the antiproliferative agent, rapamycin, is bound to the surface of the stent by means of incorporation within either a biodegradable or biostable polymeric coating to treat restenosis (see the abstract). Note Example 7 shows a two-layer coated stent wherein the polymeric coating is an acrylic with rapamycin.

The instant invention differs from the cited reference in that the cited reference does not teach the addition of 2-methoxyestradiol. However, the secondary reference, Roorda et al., teaches a medical device such as a medicated stent, wherein a therapeutic agent is bound to the surface of the stent by the incorporation of a polymeric material. Note one of the therapeutic agent is 2-methoxyestradiol used to treat vascular diseases. Note page 4, section [0033] shows the types of polymeric materials that are used to coat the stent such as acrylates.

Clearly, one skilled in the art would have assumed the combination of the two individual agents well-known to treat vascular diseases into a single composition would give an additive effect in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

The instant invention differs from the cited references in that the cited references do not teach one of the polymeric materials used to coat and incorporate the active agents to the medical device is a fluoropolymer. However, the tertiary reference, DeHaan et al., teaches fluoropolymers are well-known in the art to be used with multi-layered medical device (see the abstract).

Clearly, one skilled in the art would have assumed the use of a two-layered or multi-layered medical device such as a stent wherein one of the layers is a fluoropolymer is old and well-known in the art.

Claims 1-12 are not allowed.

The remaining references listed on the enclosed PTO-892 are cited to show the state of the art.
